

ashlin aronin

sound artist & technologist

Ashlin Aronin is a sound artist and technologist based in Portland, OR. Their work explores affectivity under capitalism through a lens of ecology and the sacred. They explore how landscape can be an active and inspired resting place of memory, feeling and more. Aronin aims to capture the possibility for deep joy and hold it in concert with a fundamentally flawed world.

To do this, they create sound art, 3D animations, interactive online experiences, installations and performances. They have exhibited, performed and been in residency on a variety of online platforms, throughout the United States, and in Germany, Panama, Sri Lanka, Indonesia and the Arctic Circle.

Work highlights:

- Kokotekan (2025 interactive playful site-specific instrument)
- Like Liquid, Cut Loose (2023 sound installation in collaboration with visual artist)
- Mutualisms (2021 collaboration involving sonified and visualized data from magnetic fields)
- Distancing (2020 interactive EP created in the form of a virtual world)
- Crepuscle (2019 field project with custom-built underwater timelapse camera recording sunrise from underneath frog puddles)
- Nectar (2017 phone tree with custom 3D models created based on your answers)
